Princess Anastasia Of Greece In Shadow

LONDON, August 20.—Princess Anastasia of Greece, formerly Mrs. Wm. B. Leeds, who has been suffering for some time from an arthritic intestinal affection, was sinking rapidly this evening and her doctors stated that virtually all hope had been abandoned. The last surgical operations were administered by a priest of the Russian Orthodox church.

She died yesterday afternoon and she had refused to recognize those about her. Princess Christopher and Anastasia's son, Wm. B. Leeds, Jr., who have kept almost constant vigil at the bedside throughout the last weeks of illness, are at the point of exhaustion. The aged queen mother, Olga of Greece, and Anastasia's secretary and companion, Miss Emma Parmenter, have denied themselves sleep, food and rest in order to comfort their patient.

Sir Thomas Horner, eminent cancer specialist, who treated Premier Durruti, has been called in with several other specialists for consultation. It is said they held but scant hope for her recovery. Dr. Turner, an American physician residing in Paris, who treated the Princess during her last night's critical illness there, was summoned to London tonight.

Sister Is On Way

The hope of the Princess' relatives is that she may survive until the arrival of her sister Mrs. Green who is a passenger on the steamer Mauretania, which sailed from New York today.

Princess Anastasia remains constantly at the bedside of his wife, who apparently fails to realize the gravity of her illness. Her son, William B. Leeds, who married Princess Xenia of Greece in 1921 and to whom the interest of the huge Leeds trust fund will revert in event of the death of his mother, is also in attendance. The venerable queen mother Olga of Greece, who has been residing with the Princess since she was taken ill, is also a frequent visitor to the sick room.

Princess Anastasia's illness dates from the middle of June when she suffered an attack of jaundice, which steadily became worse and accentuated the organic intestinal affection for which she was operated upon first at Athens and later in Paris. So far as known the Princess has provided for no change in the will of the late husband, who left $25,000,000 to be divided among his children, and to be subject to his issue if any of them should die without issue.

It is not known what provision the Princess may have made for her present husband whom she has been supporting financially since King Constantine's first flight to Switzerland, but it is assumed he will have a fair share of her fortune.

Can Salvation Army Lassie Wear Bobbed Hair?

Capt. Mildred Olson

Captain Mildred Olson, of Chicago, a high officer in the Salvation Army, has been ordered to suspend her duties there and report in New York to Commander Evangeline Booth, who will determine whether she is to be disciplined. Captain Olson defied the censor in the ranks of the Salvation Army and bobbed her hair. It will be recalled that Miss Booth's own sister, while serving with great valor in France during the World War, was sent back to England for bobbing her hair and kept there until her tresses were long again.

Italy Aroused By Murder Of Commission

ROME, August 20.—The assassination of the Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary mission has created a profound impression here and it is announced that the government has already taken "the severest measure that the extraordinary gravity of the situation warrants."

The assassinations occurred Monday the report asserts, as the party was motoring from Janina, Albania, to Santa Quaranta. The road lay through a forest and when the automobile had reached a point not far from the Greek frontier post at Kakakulla the chauffeur was forced to stop, because of the density of the woods.

"Suddenly firing opened on the commission," the report continues. "From 20 to 40 shots were fired. Dr. Corli, the medical attaché, being killed instantly. Others died after making a vain effort to reach shelter."

General Telford collapsed after walking about twenty paces. "Inasmuch as the bodies were neither disturbed nor searched by the assassins it is believed that the crime was committed from political motives. An official inquiry gave no results."

The Albanian government has conveyed to Premier Mussolini its condolences.

Reese Plans Clean Up

YOUNGSTOWN, O., August 20.—William C. Reese, reinstated as Youngstown's mayor after a hearing before Governor Donahoe, inaugurated his first day's duties today by a campaign of "cleaning up" which he would institute if he was reinstated. Consideration of appointment of a new police chief to replace James Watkins was being delayed until the government is being delayed until the appointment can be cleared up. It has not been decided whether there will be a promotional examination within the police department, or whether an outsider can be named.

Free Staters Win Election

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(By The Associated Press)—First returns from the Irish elections indicate even a more sweeping victory for the Free State candidates than their supporters had predicted. Nearly a score of government members, including almost all the cabinet ministers, have won seats by large majorities, while up to early today the election of only three Republicans was assured.

The government so far has eighteen successful candidates to about half that number for the other parties and if the present ratio is maintained it may have a clear majority in the Free State parliament instead of the plurality which its supporters expected.

The English press generally refrains from comment on the election until more returns are in, but the Daily Express already criticizes it.

Plane Had 37 Hours Steady Flying

SAN DIEGO, CAL., Aug. 20.—Beyond the statistical achievements of Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. John P. Richter, army aviators who had broken several records for endurance, distance and speed when they landed early last night after circling above the city continuously for 37 hours and a quarter, a new leaf flutters from the scroll in the sky on which the mechanical romance of aviation is being written.

The new chapter, while less spectacular, has implications perhaps more momentous. For Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter took on fuel in midair for their Delatand plane no less than fifteen times. They had accomplished the feat before but only as a daring experiment. This time they proved it practicable, durable, comparatively easy, as schemes of the air go. Thus they established that planes need not carry great amounts of fuel and food to go vast distances without stopping, but may fly on indefinitely to be met at certain airfields by refueling and provisioning planes.

The two airmen took off at 5:02 a. m. Monday. They landed as a fog gathered at 6:13:32 p. m. yesterday. The summary of their flight as revealed officially at the air field shows:

World's records:
Duration record, 37 hours, 15 minutes, 14.45 seconds, or one hour and ten minutes longer than Kelly and Macready.
Total distance flown 5,396 kilometers, or 3,353 miles at an average speed of 85.60 miles an hour.
The record of Kelly and Macready was 2,541 miles.
World speed records were broken for 2,500 to 4,000 kilometers.
The following new world speed records were set:
4,000 kilometers, time 31 hours, 36 minutes, 22 seconds, 85.60 miles an hour.
5,000 kilometers, time 35 hours 4 minutes, 28 seconds, 85.75 miles an hour.

Slayer Of Two Shot

DENVER, COLORADO, August 20.—(By The Associated Press)—The slayer of Mrs. William McGlone and Miss Emma Vasovic, who were shot in the McGlone apartment Monday, was wounded by Mrs. McGlone in her fight for life, according to the theory advanced today by Chief of Police Williams.

A bloodstained cloth lying on a chair beyond the reach of either of the women and the fact that McGlone had identified the automatic pistol found between the two bodies as one he left with his wife, support this conclusion, Chief Williams said.

"We believe both women struggled with the man who killed them," he said. "And we believe that before he wrested the gun from Mrs. McGlone, he was shot."

The search for Joseph Brindisi said by Roy McGlone, husband of the slain woman, to have made three attempts to kill Mrs. McGlone, is so far without success. Brindisi, McGlone said, apparently became infatuated with Mrs. McGlone, formerly a nurse, after she had nursed him through an illness early in the year. She spurned his attentions.

"It is marvelous. When I hear what I play, I say, 'It is finished—a perfect thing. Thank God!'"

Coming for his second trip to America, DePachmann said it was not until he was 70 years old that he had learned the real method of playing. He now is 75. He demonstrated his method on a wrist table in a cabin of the Majestic, showing how his wrists became stiff the while his fingers moved over the keys.

Claims Story Of Finding 'Of Fortune' Only A Hoax

HAGERSTOWN, MD., Aug. 20.—Lee Houser, who last Thursday claimed to have discovered a box containing over $100,000 in gold and bills while working on a road near here, last night declared the story was a hoax.

Nevertheless, he took exception to statements made by C. S. Wheeler, who said his young son had found the box but that Houser had taken it from the boy's hands. Houser is reported to have said that Wheeler had no right to claim any box which he might have.

One of Houser's fellow workmen declares he saw a coin and the box. Houser now says he took a coin from his pocket and threw it to the ground causing the report to be circulated that he had found a fortune.

Pinchot Working On Compromise Proposal

HARRISBURG, PA., Aug. 20.—(By The Associated Press)—Governor Pinchot will bring his intervention in the anthracite situation to a climax tonight. He called one representative from mine operators and official of the miners union today to meet him at six p. m., jointly, to hear and answer a compromise proposal which he has prepared in an endeavor to avert the suspension of operations September 1.

HARRISBURG, PA., August 20.—With all the tangled skein of disputes of the anthracite region in his hands, Governor Pinchot worked today to prepare a compromise proposal to avert a suspension of mining September 1st must rest. Miners' union officers and mine operators who have led both sides in fruitless negotiations to bring about peace waited in the city to get his promised word, but had little knowledge what he might have to propose.

Meantime the operators and miners themselves had direct negotiations in progress to fix the conditions under which some union members may remain at work in the fields in the event of a strike to keep pumps working and entry ways from caving in.

Union proposals to furnish such maintenance men were tied up with a requirement that all of them be awarded the eight hour day during

Business Conditions As They Actually Exist Are Discussed At Banquet Of Selby Salesmen

Business conditions as they actually exist today and their ever-changing aspects formed the predominant note of interesting talks made by Mr. George D. Selby, president of the Selby Shoe Company, and Roger A. Selby, the general manager, and by Bryant Venable of the Procter & Collier company, which agency handles the Selby company advertising, when the salesmen of the company, holding their semi-annual shoe convention here, were treated to a banquet at the Hotel Washington last night. The banquet, due to the character of the talks made, was more than an ordinary gathering of the sales force and factory managers of a successful institution, it developed into an instructive insight into the rapidly changing aspect of modern business, and the steps that a successful organization must take if it is to keep up with these changes. The address of Roger Selby especially was of interest to all who have to meet these changing conditions, and the characterization of his address by Mr. Venable as one of the best, most intelligent and most practical conditions that must be faced by the ever heard, found universal approval with all who were privileged to hear it.

To begin with, the banquet served by the Washington was complete in every manner and thoroughly enjoyed by all, from the proverbial "soup to nuts." It was splendidly served and put everyone in the right mood for the "feast of oratory" that was to follow.

Mr. Mark W. Selby, who is at the head of the selling organization, made an ideal toast master, and kept the affairs of the evening moving along with a lurch. In presenting Mr. George D. Selby, the president and founder of the institution he said he would attempt no introduction but would simply present the man who was known to all.

Mr. Selby's subject was the "Past" and his recollections proved most interesting. He told how he had spent 13 years as a sewing machine salesman, starting in an office, and growing up to what might be termed nowadays as an office manager. "But I want to say," emphasized Mr. Selby that I never got so that I did not get out in the wagon for a part of the time each year.

"I learned many things in that time, but there was one thing which I had learned at home from my parents which was of as much importance as anything I subsequently learned and that was to deal fairly with everyone. I have often said that this principle governed the neighborhood from which I came, and if anyone from there did not

Members of the "Entourage" Club were delightfully entertained on Monday evening at the home of Miss Viola Sarver on Clinton avenue. Sewing and various forms of amusements were enjoyed until a late hour, when the hostess served a delectable lunch. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Benton on Third street.

Those present at Monday night's meeting included the Misses, Ruth Hooper, Blanche Payne, Hazel Gelber, Evelyn Billian, Gertrude Daniels, Evelyn Smith, Bernice Dell, Kathryn Elliott, Mrs. Clarence Benton and Miss Sarver.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Clark of Springfield, Virginia, have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gladys Clark, to Mr. William Bassett of Bassett, Virginia. The wedding will take place at high noon on Wednesday, October 3rd, at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Clark is quite well known in Portsmouth as she often visits at the homes of her sister, Mrs. John Luther of Eleventh street, and her brother, Mr. C. E. Clark of Twelfth street. Mr. and Mrs. Clark are planning to attend the wedding.

William Ingles of 238 Twelfth street, who is an employee of the Universal Motor Company has returned from a few days' visit in Cincinnati. He was accompanied home by Miss Hazel Cooper, also of Twelfth street, who had been visiting relatives and friends there for the past week.

Miss Esther Scheid of 1024 Third street has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Scott and Miss Alaud Black of Quincy, Ky. While there she had the pleasure of hearing Evangelist Hadley of Chicago, who is conducting a series of meetings there.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davidson and Miss Marie Irving of Findlay street have gone to Columbus to attend the State Fair.

Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Morgan of John street will leave Friday for Adams county, where they will spend several days visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark spent Wednesday visiting relatives in Ironton.

Mrs. J. C. Rierley of Carrs, Ky., and daughter, Miss Anna Rierley, of Hutchins street, have returned from a six weeks' trip through the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Wertz and family of Fourth street are spending several days at their summer camp, Camp Riverside, near Wheelersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wurster are home from a delightful boat trip to Pittsburgh.

Brothers To Enjoy Reunion. Leo and Edmund Krieger leave Saturday on a motor trip to Cleveland to visit their brother, George. On their way they intend to meet another brother, Lewis, at Columbus, who will accompany them on their trip.

practice such a course it was his own fault, for he had been taught better. "I started in the sewing machine business with the determination to have a uniform price and treatment. That same principle worked well. I found when I entered the shoe business, I determined to give uniform form, uniform quality and uniform treatment to all our customers. In starting to make shoes we first put down the profit we expected to make, then added all the other things that went into the shoes, and endeavored to give the most we could for the money. This policy, together with uniform fair treatment, uniform quality and price governed our first attempts and are still governing the Selby shoe company organization today."

Mr. Selby emphasized the danger of buying too much on credit, and said he had made it a principal not to take any money out of the business until he had it capitalized. Along this line he gave a word of advice to all when he said, "Keep your money in your own business, or invest it safely where it will not be dependent upon the whim or the success of someone else."

Illustrating the small beginning of the Selby shoe company and its phenomenal growth, Mr. Selby said that in the first year, in 1889, the sales had aggregated $20,000. "We thought we had made some money that year but we found out we were mistaken the next year," he continued and the red figures showed up two more years. But in the fourth year the tide turned, and with a total sale of $105,000 a little money was made.

In 1901 when Mr. Selby left the organization, the sales had mounted to $2,987,000 and in 1920, the peak year for the factory this had grown to the total of about $11,800,000.

Mr. Selby devoted some time to the famous Arch Preserver Shoe put out by his factory, saying the reaction to it has been "the most favorable of any shoe ever put out by the organization."

Regarding it he added, "I have confidence it is the best shoe of the kind that can be produced. I know that it is."

In concluding his address Mr. Selby expressed his continued interest in the salesmen, and wished them well.

Mr. Roger Selby in his address dealt incidentally with the problems that concern the Selby Shoe Company. He outlined the condition of the factory a few years ago when business began to change with bewildering rapidity, causing the downfall of more than one business organization that had deemed itself invulnerable. As he pointed out, the factory was then enjoying a prosperous business, had a reputation unexcelled for the quality of its product, for fair dealing with everyone had a good working organization, and had conditions none unchanged could have continued indefinitely as one of the solid, prosperous concerns of the country.

But as new conditions arose it was found that changes must be made not only in the factory, but in the selling end, that were in fact revolutionary. How these changes were made at home were outlined in graphic manner by the general manager to the salesmen, in order that they might grasp the idea that they also must do their part in the new regime and sell the goods.

Regarding business conditions he said he regarded the outlook as fair but this condition might be turned into good, or excellent if all turned to the job at hand and worked with their brains as well with their hands, and feet.

His talk was illustrated with timely stories that had just the right point, and there was no doubt that he put across his views to the salesmen, who applauded him most vigorously he concluded.

Bryant Venable, representing the advertising end of the organization in a beautifully worded, short talk complimented the salesmen and the factory organization for the interest they had taken in the series of meetings being held, and expressed his pleasure at being a part of the organization. He said he believed that salesmanship was only in the development stage, and that rapid strides were sure to be made in the years just ahead.

"I would also like to say," continued Mr. Venable, "that I have heard many addresses in many places by many different people, along the line discussed by your general manager, regarding the problems that confront the factory and the selling organizations, and never have I heard a better, a more concise, a clearer presentation or one more fair to all concerned than that we have just listened to."

The gathering of the Selby salesmen will conclude today with various sessions, a fish fry at Selco park in the evening. A challenge to a game of "indoor baseball out doors" was issued by the salesmen last evening at the banquet to the foremen and promptly accepted by the latter. The salesmen calmly announced they had their own umpire "bought and paid for," but whether he will officiate remains to be seen.

The trip to Selco park will be made at four o'clock, and the automobiles and the game will begin immediately upon arrival of the players and spectators.

found that changes must be made not only in the factory, but in the selling end, that were in fact revolutionary. How these changes were made at home were outlined in graphic manner by the general manager to the salesmen, in order that they might grasp the idea that they also must do their part in the new regime and sell the goods.

Regarding business conditions he said he regarded the outlook as fair but this condition might be turned into good, or excellent if all turned to the job at hand and worked with their brains as well with their hands, and feet.

His talk was illustrated with timely stories that had just the right point, and there was no doubt that he put across his views to the salesmen, who applauded him most vigorously he concluded.

Bryant Venable, representing the advertising end of the organization in a beautifully worded, short talk complimented the salesmen and the factory organization for the interest they had taken in the series of meetings being held, and expressed his pleasure at being a part of the organization. He said he believed that salesmanship was only in the development stage, and that rapid strides were sure to be made in the years just ahead.

"I would also like to say," continued Mr. Venable, "that I have heard many addresses in many places by many different people, along the line discussed by your general manager, regarding the problems that confront the factory and the selling organizations, and never have I heard a better, a more concise, a clearer presentation or one more fair to all concerned than that we have just listened to."

The gathering of the Selby salesmen will conclude today with various sessions, a fish fry at Selco park in the evening. A challenge to a game of "indoor baseball out doors" was issued by the salesmen last evening at the banquet to the foremen and promptly accepted by the latter. The salesmen calmly announced they had their own umpire "bought and paid for," but whether he will officiate remains to be seen.

The trip to Selco park will be made at four o'clock, and the automobiles and the game will begin immediately upon arrival of the players and spectators.

The two prisoners were brought to the county jail, where they are held to answer charges of manufacturing illicit liquor, while the seized still and liquor were transported to the sheriff's office for evidence and the mash was destroyed.

Jinx Following Piketon Principalship

PIKETON, Aug. 29—There seems to be a jinx following the Piketon Board of Education, this year, in the matter of securing a Principal for the high school. Early in the summer, T. S. Whipple of McConelsville was employed to fill this position, and owing to the fact that he was unable to secure his release from the Marine Board of Education, with whom he had a contract, he was unable to accept the offer of the Piketon board. At a later meeting, Mark McMillan, formerly superintendent of the Stockdale schools, was employed as Principal of the Piketon High School. It now seems that there is a difference between Mr. McMillan and the board of education as to the salary, connected with the position, and the board is not yet certain whether Mr. McMillan will accept the position. If Mr. McMillan fails to meet the terms of the Piketon board it will leave them in an embarrassing position as the Piketon schools are scheduled to open Tuesday, September 4th.

WHYGROWFAT?

Druggist Tells of Easy Pleasant Way to Keep Trim Attractive Figure Even at Middle Age.

Thousands of women who have had a trim, stylish figure all their lives, begin to take on weight in early middle age. And because they have heard of "Fat and Fort" and because foolish starvation diets, ridiculous exercises and certain medicines only seem to make their condition worse, they give up all hope and say, "Oh well, I'll just be fat and stay that way."

But that shows—Fat that comes and stays is not only cumbersome, but may prove dangerous to health if you are not given the necessary activity and pleasures. So why stay that way!

No special exercises or diets! No dangerous or sickening medicines. Just a cooling, sparkling, aperient pleasant to take—but quickly and noticeably effective.

New York By Day And Night

BY JACK HOOD

New York is an ever changing city. They're always tearing down and building up and seem never to be satisfied with anything very long. But pipe the elevated trains! They're putting on a lot of "dog".

The cars are all dotted up with and stations are all dotted up with the trains look like John Robinson's circus train. Then, too, they are following the style started by the subway in having pickle-in-the-slot turnstile gates until it looks to me like its going to be up to the people to wear leather aprons like a black ball catcher to keep out places off of us from bumping into them all the time. Of course that's our own look-out. But the color isn't. If a farmer along the Seljito Trail would paint his barn the color of the elevated trains, folks would call him a "country Jake."

I notice a motto or slogan in the cars over here, "Boost New York." Personally, I don't believe New York needs boosting any more than an elephant needs a recommendation for its size. New York speaks for itself.

The upper floors of the buildings in the wholesale and manufacturing districts here are spoken of as "lofts" and you see numerous signs, "Loft to Let." If you would see a sign like this in Portsmouth most of us would think some fellow wanted to rent his hog-mow.

While riding on the car yesterday with my friend and fellow buyer P. V. Davidson, we noticed a sign which read, "Restaurant Training School." and to the point for he had just breakfasted at a restaurant where he said he had been "trained." His remark was to the effect that the restaurant training school was to teach them to see how thin they could slice the ham.

My friend Davidson and I were going up town yesterday on a Sixth Avenue elevated train when a fire engine came down the street changing its gong and blowing its siren. We both jumped up and looked out of the window. A In Portsmouth, and by George, we were the only ones in the car that paid any attention. I felt like two cents and sat down as quickly as I could and under my breath said, "Hicks," but Davidson stood up and watched the thing out of sight and I really think he wanted to follow it.

And speaking of "rubbering," there is a factory making men's clothes in a corner building near Bleeker street where the elevated railroad turns and the cars always run slowly here and very close to the windows, where many men work. I have passed there scores of times on these trains and I have yet to see a man look up from his work. I haven't given up hopes yet, for some day I expect to see some fellow taken off his guard and see him cast his glances out of the window toward our train. It seems to me I'd want to look some time.

Stile note: Get the scissors girls. (Slight intermission while you get them) Now are you ready? All right. Cut off your sleeves. Did you say "where?" Oh, any place will do just so you cut them off. The shorter the better, and if you haven't any scissors just tear them out by the roots and you'll be "more stylish" than if you merely cut them off. It looks to me like sleeves are "as passe" as ears and that sanitation scars are the badges of fashion.

There is a fire somewhere. I hear the fire engines coming. Good-bye, I'm going.

Arm Infected

D. A. Lewis, 1204 Eleventh Street, employed by the Portsmouth Ice Co., Twelfth and Railroad, was treated at Mercy Hospital yesterday for an infected arm. An incision was made and the source of the trouble eliminated.

Tonsils Removed.
Miss Edna Grant of Mansfield, submitted to an operation for the removal of her tonsils yesterday at Schirman Hospital.

Returns Home.
Homer Sharpe, of Clendenning, W. Va., returned to his home yesterday after a short visit with J. R. Hooper and family of Franklin Avenue.

Mrs. Youngman Ill.
Mrs. George Youngman of City View, West Side, is ill with tonsillitis.

Here On Visit.
Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wills of Muskogee, Oklahoma, are visiting Portsmouth relatives and friends. Mr. Wills, a former Portsmouth boy, left here 14 years ago. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he is doing well at Muskogee.

THE YELLOW SEVEN. RUN TO EARTH

BY EDMUND SNELL
ILLUSTRATED BY R.W. SATERFIELD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Chai-Hung is leader of the Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Peter Pennington, who is detailed by the government to apprehend Chai-Hung, is engaged to be married to Monica Viney. Monica's brother, Captain John Hewitt, is Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo. Pennington leads an expedition to capture the bandit leader. Peter is aided by his chief-of-staff, Rabat-Pilal, who, because of a personal grievance, hates Chai-Hung bitterly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

A bullet drilled a hole in his temple and Dawson laughed aloud. A knot of fanatics—running short of ammunition—halted their approach with a shower of rocks. Dawson dispatched the first man with his pistol and the remainder took to their heels to fall upon the bayonets of the last of Clay's party. There followed a period of breathless, hand-to-hand fighting and presently he woke to the sudden realization that they were on level ground, in fierce pursuit of the last defenders of gradient.

Clay's voice bellowed after him. "Dawson! Dawson, come back here! We've gained our objective and I won't pay us to go farther!"

"The D. O. retired with evident reluctance."

"Nothing to speak of. You are all right!"

Dawson fell himself all over.

"Not even a blip! It's very disappointing. When I get back to my little log-hut in the trees, nobody'll believe I took part in the scrap at all!"

Clay was sucking at the stem of an empty briar.

"I'll give you a certificate to that effect! I think we've every reason to pat ourselves on the back. We've in occupation of the entire ridge, plenty of cover and a clear view of Chai-Hung's headquarters." He knotted the improvised bandage and drew it taut with his teeth.

"The Yellow Seven are hemmed in on the plateau. Pennington is advancing on our extreme right. Rabat-Pilal is in charge of the left flank. Behind the earthworks they've chucked up there's a sheer drop of eight hundred feet."

Dawson borrowed Clay's binoculars and in the first gray light of approaching dawn, focused them on a broad, squat pile of rockwork barely a quarter of a mile ahead. A mole juttied from the center of the pile and from it swung a yellow flag.

"Better get a stretcher party to work," he remembered suddenly.

"I've told my sergeant already."

He glanced back and saw Pennington coming up the slope. His left arm was in a sling and there was a broad strip of plaster across one cheek.

Pennington dropped to the earth and lay on his stomach, his chin pillowed in his hands. "Dawson, I want you to take over my section. I'm fixing up grub for everybody. The sun'll be up in a few minutes, there's be a quick breakfast after which we embark upon the second part of our program. Clay, your party—altogether with a further platoon—I'm sending you—will advance a couple of hundred yards and take cover. Dawson, you'll want to go a bit farther—say three hundred. Rabat-Pilal will open out the same. At seven I'm going to open out with the fifteen pounder."

A runner took up the incline and hastened before them.

"The Tuan Pennington?"

The man with the Chinese eyes took the message from his hand. Dawson, watching him curiously, saw the color vanishing from his cheeks. He sat, vanishing from his cheeks. He sat, vanishing from his cheeks. He sat, vanishing from his cheeks.

"What is it?" demanded Clay.

Pennington started.

"It's from Hewitt," he said. "He hasn't been able to get away, but hopes to join us before it's all over. Monica disappeared two days ago. She was going to the Governor's house at Sandakan and didn't turn up."

"What's Mrs. Viney—Pennington's fiancée," explained Dawson. "This is terrible. Penn. You don't think Chai-Hung has had anything to do with this?"

Pennington rose to his feet.

"I don't know what to think. It's knocked me pretty hard."

"What are you going to do, Penn?"

"Carry on," said Pennington with a touch of bitterness.

Dawson, flattened down against the rock, barely a hundred paces from the main objective, saw the seventh pound send a wall toppling drunkenly inward.

"Good man!" he murmured excitedly, then groped for his rifle. Four more rounds followed in quicker succession—and the D. O. rubbed his fat hands together. Chai-Hung's lair was crumbling from its very foundations. One main wall of enormous boulders stood alone behind a heap of ruins and he guessed that this remaining rampart sheltered all that was left of the bandit's followers. To all intents and purposes the day was won.

And then, as he brought his gaze back to the wall, he saw a figure standing very erect on its summit; a line of enormous proportions in a white drill tunic and baggy silk trousers. He did not need the assistance of binoculars to recognize Chai-Hung.

Within a matter of seconds, a second form had joined him, pushed from below by unseen hands. In a flash there dawned upon him the meaning of that maneuver of the early hours, the band had broken through carrying his senses reeling from a pituit.

"For God's sake stop that damned gun!" he caught himself screaming aloud, writhing in the agony of his impotence. He jammed his fingers in his ears and tried in vain to draw his eyes from the giant who, bounding hand and foot, lunged forward on the jagged surface of rock, looked death in the face unflinchingly.

He had always admired Monica had even cherished hopes of her himself until Pennington stepped in. The sight of her standing there by the side of Chai-Hung maddened him. He tried to collect his thoughts and, as he did so, the real significance of that solitary rampart was borne upon him. Clay had told him after their first attack that behind the rude fortress was a sheer drop of eight hundred feet. Her presence there was a warning.

"TELL ME, WHERE'S PETER? WHY ISN'T HE HERE?"

ing to Pennington to cease fire.

He wriggled into the shelter of the next boulder ahead, conscious only of a desire to do something. Twenty yards from the wall, he realized that the firing had stopped. As he watched his opportunity to scramble under the wall itself, his eye caught a second figure far to his right, a short, swarthy scarecrow with a long knife between his teeth.

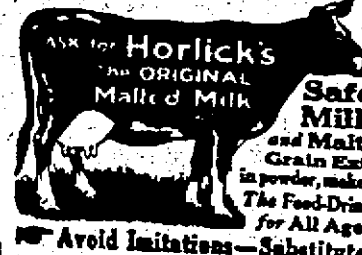

"Rabat-Pilal! The creature passed out of sight and Dawson lay very still while all around reigned a silence that tugged at his nerve-strings. The sun beat mercilessly down on him and he shifted his battered topee back over the nape of his neck, wondering all the time what Chai-Hung's next move would be.

Suddenly, from their own lines, a single rifle-shot rang out. The man on the wall clapped a hand to his side, then swung his arm forward as if to send his victim tottering backward.

Dawson cursed the fellow under his breath. It was sheer madness to pick off the bandit, for he stood so close to the girl that the faintest touch must assuredly carry her with him.

A rock, dislodged from somewhere, slid into space and two hands appeared on the wall, inches away from where the girl stood. Impelled from behind, she slid forward with a little scream into the ruins, and Chai-Hung turned with a snarl upon Chinese Pennington. He had discarded his sling, but Dawson could see that his wounded arm pained him greatly.

He hit Chai-Hung with all the force he could muster, over-balanced with the sheer force of impact—and the men disappeared together into the abyss.

As if at a given signal, the attacking force rose and advanced at the double but Dawson, anxious only for the safety of Monica and his best friend, blundered ahead of them into the shattered stronghold. He found Hewitt's sister, bruised but uninjured, half-buried in a heap of debris.

"Dear Mr. Dawson," she murmured incoherently.

"I'm glad you've turned up. I was beginning to think all my friends had deserted me."

He severed her bonds with his knife and she caught his sleeve between her numbed fingers. "Tell me, where's Peter? Why isn't he here?"

"Dawson choked."

"It was Pennington who saved you," he stammered. "He—I'll find out for you in a minute."

He pushed a fresh clip into his pistol and made her take it. A second later he was staring blankly into space.

There was a track—a foot wide—between the base of the wall and below cliff-edge. A couple of yards below, grinning up at him. This amazing being was hanging on by his fingers and toes, with the limp form of Peter Pennington pressed between him and the face of the rock.

Dawson dropped to the path, steadied himself, then grasping a single branch that jutted from the edge, reached downward. Rabat, loosening his hold pushed Pennington's arm upward until Dawson could grasp his wrist—then slid without utterance to join the still form of his arch-enemy, eight hundred feet below.

The D. O. drew Pennington to safety—him, appearing at the farthest extremity of the rampart crept round to help him.

LAST RITES OF MAYOR ROBUECK TO BE HELD AT WEST UNION THURSDAY

WEST UNION, O., August 29.—Funeral services for the late Mayor S. P. Robueck of this village, will be conducted from the Baptist church here Thursday afternoon.

Mayor Robueck was one of the prominent political figures in Adams county, and was well and favorably known throughout southern Ohio. A member of a family which has long been prominent in Adams and adjoining counties, Mr. Robueck began his career as a school teacher, and in the schoolroom, he taught at various places in Adams county, and, at one time, was superintendent of the schools in Rarden, Scioto county. In 1870 Mayor Robueck became an Odd Fellow, and, at the time of his death, enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest member of that order in Adams county. He was 70 years of age.

Surviving are the grief stricken widow, two sons, Drs. Carl and Harry Robueck of Gomer, O.; two brothers, Carey E. and Henry Robueck of West Union, and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson of Wilmington, O. Another sister, Mrs. Mary Leamon of Wilmington, with his parents, preceded Mayor Robueck in death.

With the passing of S. P. Robueck West Union and Adams county lose a splendid Christian citizen and a conscientious public official, who had acted as teacher, school examiner, and mayor—a continuous record of service which tells the story of a life invested in the community in which he made his home. To his family, who bear the more immediate burden of sorrow at his passing, words of condolence poured in yesterday, the genuine tribute of a people who loved him. His son, Dr. Carl Robueck, arrived from Lima Tuesday, accompanied by his wife and daughter.

The last rites, conducted from the West Union Baptist Church, will be in charge of Rev. A. K. Murphy of Portsmouth, an old friend of the family. Rev. Murphy will be assisted by Rev. P. M. Myers, pastor of the West Union church. Interment will be made in Kirk-er's cemetery, Liberty township, and will be in charge of the Odd Fellows.

Juvenile Follies Making Hit At Eastland

The second edition of the Juvenile Follies being presented this week at the Eastland Theatre is proving an even greater success than the first one staged by the Eastland management several weeks ago. Manager Wood has succeeded in preparing a well rounded program, and a great share of the juvenile talent in Portsmouth.

The opening scene with Albert Ward, Fairbelle Mayo, Beatrice Kean, Donald Elwell, Joe Spitzer and Lewis Russell, brings forth Hawaiian melody and a clever interpretative dancing.

From the specialties consisting of a number of the latest jazz productions by Lewis Russell, brought a hearty round of applause and particularly well received were the vest pocket edition of Bert Williams introduced by Willard Baller, the singing of Arthur DeVoss, and the acrobatic solos by Jimmy Conlin.

FINAL SHOWING OF

"ADAM AND EVA" TONIGHT

Marion Davies and T. Roy Barnes in a scene from the Paramount Picture "Adam and Eve." A Cosmopolitan Production.

The final showings of the Cosmopolitan production, "Adam and Eve," starring Marion Davies, will take place at the Lyrio Theatre this evening. This picture has proved to be one of the most popular seen here in a long time. Miss Davies is at her best as a girl who keeps her father on edge by her utter disregard for the value of money. The uplift of the entire family is the result of a plan to curb this extravagance. T. Roy Barnes plays opposite the star.

Joseph Urban, the man who accomplished wonders in the Cosmopolitan production, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," has added new laurels to his crown by duplicating and in some instances surpassing this work in his most recent production, "Adam and Eve."

In this picture the settings are entirely different from those of "Knighthood" as far as description goes, but they are alike in magnificence. There is a mansion of John King, a South American rubber planter, with its gorgeous interiors, furniture, draperies, etc.; a well planned farmhouse and outbuildings and a carnival scene stupendously produced in the customary Urban style.

These are but a few of the many beautiful scenic effects which will be unfolded by this picture at the Lyrio Theatre tonight. Don't miss it. No advance in prices, 15 and 30 cents.

Why He Called It "Portland" Cement

In 1824, an English mason wanted to produce a better cement than any then in use. To do this he burned finely ground clay and limestone together at a high heat. The hard balls [called clinker] that resulted were ground to a fine powder. When a mixture of this dull gray powder with water had hardened, it was the color of a popular building stone quarried on the Isle of Portland off the coast of England. So this mason, Joseph Aspdin, called his discovery "portland" cement.

That was less than one hundred years ago.

Portland cement was not made in the United States until fifty years ago. The average annual production for the ten years following was only 36,000 sacks. Last year the country used over 470,000,000 sacks of portland cement. Capacity to manufacture was nearly 600,000,000 sacks.

Cement cannot be made everywhere because raw materials of the necessary chemical composition are not found in sufficient quantities in every part of the country. But it is now manufactured in 27 states by 120 plants. There is at least one of these plants within shipping distance of any community in this country.

To provide a cement supply that would always be ample to meet demand has meant a good deal in costly experience to those who have invested in the cement industry. There have been large capital investments with low returns.

In the last twenty-five years, 328 cement plants have been built or have gone through some stage of construction or financing. 162 were completed and placed in operation.

Only 120 of these plants have survived the financial, operating and marketing risks of that period. Their capacity is nearly 30 per cent greater than the record year's demand.

These are a few important facts about an industry that is still young. Advertisements to follow will give you more of these facts, and will tell something of the important place cement occupies in the welfare of every individual.

WORK ON NEW PLEASANT GREEN BAPTIST CHURCH IS PROGRESSING SATISFACTORILY

Building operations are proceeding on the Pleasant Green Baptist church, Fifteenth and Waller, and the members are jubilant over the prospect of the church being under roof before cold weather sets in.

Every member is interested and actively engaged in doing something helpful towards the building program. There have been organized, a men's brotherhood and a sisterhood having weekly meetings which will add much to the social and literary life of the church. Last Sunday we had with us for the evening service, Miss Bower, a student of Moody Bible school, Chicago, a most excellent talker and singer, with her were her brother and sister who rendered a most pleasing duet. We are most grateful to these white friends for their Christian spirit of help. Rev. B. B. Reed pastor, attended the E. U. Association at Mt. Vernon, O., last week, and invited them to meet with us in our new church next year, which they agreed to, so we will have to work much faithfully to complete our new church and be ready to entertain this large delegation next August.

Our church is progressing nicely, even through this hot weather when attendance is at a minimum in most churches we are having capacity congregations.

Mrs. M. L. Henry who sang so beautifully a few Sunday ago will sing again next Sunday. Mrs. Zella Pfeiffer, our soloist has been in a vacation along with several choir members but they will all be with us about the 1st of September at which time we will have one of the leading choirs in the city. Deacon Wm. Gabbins, whom we call our faithful, has been absent two weeks and we missed him very much. The clubs are active and doing great things for the cause. We are looking for all the members Sunday as it is communion day and happy friends for their Christian spirit of help. Rev. B. B. Reed pastor, attended the E. U. Association at Mt. Vernon, O., last week, and invited them to meet with us in our new church next year, which they agreed to, so we will have to work much faithfully to complete our new church

"Tommy Meighan" Coming To Columbia

Thomas Meighan is coming to town on Thursday and will arrive from Cincinnati on the noon train. From the station Tommy will come direct to the Columbia Theater and will remain in the theater's office until Monday when he will fly back to New York.

Perhaps we had better explain. Tommy Meighan, in this instance, is a homing pigeon—not the curly-haired, wholesome, Paramount star. But feathered Tommy is the human Tommy's namesake and is the property of Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount Pictures. Mr. Zukor named the pigeon after his famous star.

Anyway, here's the story: Adolph Zukor shipped Tommy Meighan to Cincinnati and thence to Portsmouth to the Columbia Theater, which inaugurates Paramount Week on Monday evening. Paramount Week signifies the opening of the new Fall Movie season.

So, on Monday evenings, Tommy Meighan will be released from in front of the Columbia and will wing his way back to old Manhattan. This is the message he will carry to Mr. Zukor at his Long Island estate, which is located at Westbury, Ohio, near the town of Lakewood. And so the Fall Movie season will be started in a most unique manner.

Tommy Meighan, the pigeon, will truly have to justify his designation of being a "homing pigeon" on the cruise to New York. For it is more than 700 miles from Portsmouth, yet, armed with that uncanny sense of direction possessed by birds of his variety, his coty will undoubtedly reach his home at the Zukor estate sometime on Tuesday.

Statistics concerning homing pigeons show that these birds of the speedier class fly at an average of 1400 yards a minute over a 400 mile course. This is approximately 50 miles an hour. And Tommy Meighan, in breeding and speed, ranks with the best of them. Watch the Times for another story on Tommy's arrival in Portsmouth and his coming journey back to New York.

Movie Actress Will Be In Person At Columbia Theatre

Intimate glimpses into movieland will be given by Miss Adeline Linnell, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at the Columbia theatre, as Miss Linnell will be the regular program.

Under the subject "Glimpses of Studio Life," Miss Linnell will relate facts and portray incidents that will command the closest attention of her audience. The making of film productions will be explained and facts brought out that are not popularly known.

"Many an actor takes his life into his hands when he works in an animal picture," she says. "Regardless of the prevailing opinion that the animals are harmless, super-natural and feeble, there are only too many instances on the lot in which accidents have occurred. The actors take every possible precaution. Miss Linnell will talk at 7 and 9 o'clock each day, and this is a rare opportunity for movie fans to learn from an actress how the pictures are made in the studio city of Hollywood."

Lots of Excitement Until Child Is Found

The Steubenville, O., Gazette says: Great excitement reigned when little Joe McNamara, of 1219 Twined avenue who was one of the guests at the "Play ground picnic" at Stanton Park, was among the missing when the children were brought home. It was thought he strayed away after the party reached the city but police were unable to locate him. Later the youngster was found at the park. He had remained behind seeking further amusement.

Mr. and Mrs. McNamara are former well known residents of the West Side.

Outline Plan To Protect Consumer In Event Of Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(By The Associated Press)—Pledging full cooperation to Federal Fuel Administration, Wadleigh in any emergency plan to obtain for consumers a maximum fuel supply in the event of an emergency extension of anti-strike mining after September 1, representatives of eleven Atlantic seaboard states, left New York last night to await the outcome of Governor Pinchot's conference at Harrisburg with operators and union leaders.

Representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the American Railway Association, the United States Bureau of Mines and the American Federation of Engineering Societies were also parties to the agreement.

"If the need arises we will start at once to put into operation our plan for maintaining rapid distribution of what anti-strike is available and of sufficient bituminous oil and other substitutes to keep people from suffering," Mr. Wadleigh said.

"The plan provides for the establishment by each state of an emergency fuel distributing organization and a similar one by the Federal government."

The Federal body would work with the states in distributing fuel, obtaining supplies from the fields and getting railroad co-operation for quick transportation.

Mr. Wadleigh said the American Railway Association had promised to look after proper distribution while the Bureau of Mines would educate the public in the use of substitute fuel.

at once to put into operation our plan for maintaining rapid distribution of what anti-strike is available and of sufficient bituminous oil and other substitutes to keep people from suffering," Mr. Wadleigh said.

Opposed To Curtailment Of Supreme Court Powers

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., August 29.—Opposition to any curtailment of the powers of the United States Supreme Court was expressed by John W. Davis of New York in his address as president of the American Bar Association at the opening of its 47th annual convention here today.

In addition to this stand, which applies to decisions involving constitutional questions as well as departure from 5 to 4 majority decisions, the Association president also advocated the following:

Congress should come into being immediately upon its election and the president and vice president should be inaugurated without any unnecessary lapse of time.

Bar should demand without further delay the appointment under congressional authority of an expert commission to codify the federal statutes.

Adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting the president of the United States to veto specific items in an appropriation bill.

Ratification of treaties with foreign countries by the senate by a majority vote instead of the two thirds vote now required.

Submission of constitutional amendments directly to the people of the several states or to the legislatures selected after and not before the amendment has been proposed.

Repealed hope expressed in an association's resolution last year that "a way may be found by which the government of the United States may avail itself of the permanent court of international justice."

Cable From

Cuba's war of independence, politicians and some women with others. The organization has no connection with the Veterans Association, headed by General Pedro Belmonte, secretary of Agriculture, General Garcia Velazquez said he would issue a statement covering all actions of the assembly at the close of today's session.

Officials Deny Knowledge of Trouble

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Although no American official will discuss the imposition by Cuba of a cable censorship, the fact that the country and the United States, it is believed by those outside of official circles but in close touch with the Cuban situation that the step was taken as a precaution against possible serious political developments.

Both the State Department and the Cuban Embassy received their news of the censorship through press dispatches from New York.

Up to that time no official word had reached Washington that such a step might be in prospect.

"The activities of the Cuban Veterans organization while has been building many mass meetings in protest against the new railroad consolidation and other government measures are said to have caused considerable anxiety among some officials in Havana. Whatever reports the American government has had on the subject, however, are held in the strictest confidence."

It is made clear here, however, that this government has no connection with any censoring of messages sent from the United States to Cuba. Such a step is beyond the authority of executive officials. It is assumed that the censoring of messages sent to Cuba will be performed by the Cuban officials stationed in the Cuban receiving offices who will also pass on all messages submitted for transmission from Cuba to the United States.

Cut Taxes

mand a bonus bill and pass it over a Presidential veto if Mr. Coolidge should object.

The President has not made known his attitude on the bonus and probably will not do so until he finds himself compelled to speak. While Governor of Massachusetts Mr. Coolidge signed a bonus bill, so in principle at least, he favors it. Thus the whole matter resolves itself for him into a question of whether the Government can afford a bonus. That is where the significance of Chairman Madden's statement lies. Mr. Madden opposed the bonus last session. He now comes out in favor of a program of reducing taxation. Having proposed tax reductions immediately after talking with the President and Secretary of the Treasury makes it possible to draw the inference that he has the moral support of the Executive in his project.

But there can be no reduction of taxation if at the same time the Government undertakes added financial burdens in the form of soldiers' compensation or other measures. Therefore, should the Federal Government take? Should it continue as at present and squeeze a bonus out of the revenues now coming in, especially when the Administration has in the last two years not only been able to balance the budget but actually show a surplus? Or should the Administration resist the bonus advocates and make a drive for lower taxation?

From a political viewpoint, few people are able to estimate what would be more effective. There are many more million taxpayers of course, than there are soldiers entitled to a bonus. The support of the big business and financial centers of the country would be given the Coolidge Administration if at the same time that a bonus was shelved taxes were reduced. The Agricultural West is off the bonus but actually shows a surplus. It is an uncertain quantity, but a program of lower taxes would tend to hold the East solidly behind the Republican Administration. That is one theory by which the politics of the hour is being analyzed. Senate Finance Committee, has said that he didn't look for a reduction of taxation at the next session. But there is no doubt that the Western insurgents, especially the La Follette group, will press for tax revision especially on smaller incomes and for a raising of the taxes on higher incomes. If the Western Senators are going to take the initiative in tax revision, the regulars who want to keep the Administration lined up with Eastern sentiment would prefer to control the situation by offering a program of their own. It is inconceivable that the Administration would sit silently while the insurgents offered programs of tax revision.

"Can the Government reduce taxes and pay a bonus? The advocates of sales tax think so. This introduces still another element into the controversy as there are many people in Congress who think the present system of taxation could be simplified by a sales tax and they are glad of the excuse that the bonus situation offers to renew their advocacy of a sales tax."

The announcement of Chairman Madden, however, will, for the present, have the effect of forcing the issue as between a bonus and tax reduction with the Administration watching carefully the trend of public opinion to see whether the country would rather opt to its expenditures with a possibility of increased taxation or keep on for a few years with its policy of reducing the public debts and taxes generally.

Pinchot

The time of the suspension. Operators would be holding out for an agreement that would give them conditions identical with those they now have but a promise of pay adjustment retroactive to September 1, should any better conditions be won at the end of a suspension.

The governor maintained secrecy as to terms of his proposal and indicated that it might not be ready until night.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, arrived here today to lead the miners union group, detained by illness from the preliminary meetings with Governor Pinchot, he sent Philip Murray, vice president to speak for him. He was expected to give the union's final word on the settlement proposals which the governor will have ready tonight.

Terms of settlement which some of the governor's advisers said he had in mind included four main points, the first of which would be an agreement by each side to a 90 day truce and a calling off of the suspension order.

The operators would also be asked in this version of the matter, to abolish all but eight-hour day employment, and to consent to the installation by the union of its own agents in the company offices on pay day for the collection of union dues. Both sides would be asked further to continue joint negotiations over the wage scale on the theory any increases granted would be retroactive to September 1.

The miners contingent had in mind the idea that the governor would try to force the operators to grant some sort of a wage increase, perhaps as much as ten per cent, but were nevertheless inclined to regard the suggestion as inadequate to meet demands.
